Tour to Wellington City Council Archives on August 20th. If you want to go on this tour you should have registered with Kathy by 16th August.

kathycallaghan@at@gmail.com 021 0452925 or 297 0733

Tour of Salvation Army Archives, Trentham

A tour of the Salvation Army Archives in Trentham has been organised for Friday Sept 13th at 10.30am. They ask that we be there by 10.30am so that we can join them for morning tea (they told me they have an awesome chef!). The tour will start at 11:00 am and usually takes about 1½ hours.

NB: This tour is strictly limited to 15, so the list will be made on order of letting me know. Also it is not possible to get there via train for 10.30am, so we will car pool. Please let me know if you need a ride or can offer car space. I suggest passengers contribute $5 towards petrol to the driver. We will organise another tour next year for those who miss out this time.

To get a place on the list email kathycallaghan@at@gmail.com or ph 297 0733 or 021 045 2925

Free guest lectures

For those of us not able to get to Utah and the Family History Library there, check out Judy Russell's blogpost <https://www.legalgenealogist.com/2019/08/13/thanks-to-the-fhl-2019-style/> on a now yearly set of free guest lectures (at rather unsociable hours if you watch live from NZ). These will be available via the Legacy Family Tree Webinars for a few days after the event. The live sessions are on 6th September, MDT, ie Mountain Daylight Time, which timeanddate.com tells me that to watch the Elizabeth Shown Mills lecture at 9am on the 6th you'll have to be up at 3am on Sat 7th September and for Judy's lecture at 11:30 you can sleep in until 5:30 am.

9 a.m. — Elizabeth Shown Mills, CG, CGL, FASG, FNGS, FUGA — “Reasonably Exhaustive Research: The First Criteria for Genealogical Proof”

Tracking a project from start to finish, this session demonstrates the principles of reasonably exhaustive research and how much is required to prove identity and parentage.

11:30 am — Judy G. Russell, JD, CG, CGL — “Share and Share Alike: The Rules of Genealogical Privacy”

Genealogy by its very nature is collaborative-we need to work together and share information. But doing family research doesn't mean giving up all semblances of personal privacy, nor is it a license to invade the privacy of others. All researchers need to follow the rules, both legal and ethical, when we share genealogical information.

Writing family history

July's Daytime Session created an interesting topic for discussion between our members. It was all about 'Writing Family Stories', which as we know is a personal thing to you alone. Everyone has different ideas and a different way of how they would like to see their story told.

People were asked what they thought about when writing their family history.

Some things you may want to think about are as follows, along with links to help:

-Do we want it to be just about family stories?

-Do you want to write a family book? - To do so, you need to imagine it -plan it – create it – edit it - design it – then – publish it. The following free course will give you some guidance and good contact information. <https://www.futurelearn.com/courses/genealogy/>

-Maybe write a family narrative? Which is simply telling a story, whether it be about yourself or your family. <https://www.quora.com/What-should-be-included-in-a-personal-narrative-essay>

-Concentrate on your life story? Are you just writing for your family or the general public, also whether you want your real life story with real names or whether it is written as fiction with fictitious names.

- <https://www.freelancewriting.com/journal-writing/writing-the-story-of-your-life/>

They are all different and whichever you choose can alter the way you write.

Also Family Search - 18 Writing Tips for 2018:

<https://www.familysearch.org/blog/en/18-writing-tips-tell-stories/>

How to Tell Personal and Family Stories with Confidence.

The four main headings are: Get Started ; Trigger Memories; Keep it simple; Make it last.

Cindy's List

Thanks to Kilbirnie Branch NZSG for hosting Cyndi Ingle of Cyndi's List on Tuesday 13 August, following her appearance at the successful Family History Expo in Auckland. We are so lucky to see and hear, in our little corner of the world, these overseas icons of the World Genealogy Community.

Approximately one hundred, including at least seven from Kapiti, attended her two presentations. Cyndi commenced her List of useful websites in 1995 and today, almost twenty five years later, it has approximately 336,000 links and is still growing. Amazingly, it is free and she maintains it all on her own. A major upgrade in 2011, funded through donations, means today we are the beneficiaries of Version 2.0.

Cyndi's second presentation focused on preserving your research by being your own digital archivist. Tedious maybe but so vitally important in keeping your research safe and updated, especially in terms of the galloping advancement of storage and security options.

www.CyndisList.com Check it out. It's a wonderful resource.

Denice McCarten

Two recent blog posts from FamilySearch may be of interest to those using the invaluable FamilySearch tree - a fantastic resource when trying to figure out where a DNA match might "fit", and for quickly checking sources for a DNA match's tree. As well, of course, as a great place to record your own research for posterity and search for those elusive snippets to further your research.

<https://www.familysearch.org/blog/en/family-tree-how-to-merge/>

and a very necessary companion piece

<https://www.familysearch.org/blog/en/fix-incorrect-merges-on-familysearch/>

It is a completely free resource, but you need to be registered to use it.

Some source images are only available from Family History Centres or affiliate libraries, ie the National Library in Wellington.

Schools Admissions project

Quarterly Progress Report on the Schools Admissions Registers Project of the Kapiti Genealogy Group, assisted by Waikanae genealogists, for the third quarter of 2019.

We have transcribed all the available data from schools in the area that have given consent. Our efforts are now concentrated on checking the transcribed data against the original registers, and correcting any errors that are found. If no further schools consent, the current project will end when all the data we currently have, has been checked and corrected.

Below is the progress made on each school:

Paekakariki School	Project 4640	1849 Records completed and passed to NZSG
Raumati Beach School	Project 4639	3357 Records completed and sent to NZSG, 5 Apr 2017.
Waikanae Primary School	Project 4641	7747 Records completed and sent to NZSG, 9 Apr 2018.
Paraparaumu Beach School	Project 4643	6207 Records completed and sent to NZSG, 28 Mar 2019
St Patricks School	Project 4651	483 Records completed and passed to NZSG, 16 Apr 2019
Kapanui School	Project 4645	1978 – 2015 transcribed, 1978 – 2015 checked, 1978 – 2005 corrected.
Kenakena School	Project 4653	1978 – 2010 transcribed 1978 – 1986 checked.

There are currently 12 volunteers from the Kapiti and Waikanae groups.

Familysearch maps

For those of you who used to use the FamilySearch parish maps, they're back after being absent for quite some time <https://www.familysearch.org/mapp/>

What are they (very) useful for?

Check out the pull down box labelled "Choose map to select" or toggle between the Search and Layers options on the left hand side to get further refinements.

Can't find your ancestors in parish X and don't know what the neighbouring parishes are?

Pop your parish in the search box, select it from the list of options presented.

Click on the mapped area and select the Options tab and explore the List contiguous parishes or use the Radius place search - and be amazed all over again at how many parishes there actually were within 20 miles of where you thought your ancestors came from.

Jump to the FamilySearch Catalog(ue) for the relevant records held, or the Wiki for yet more information.

Round Robins

The two magazines for Round Robin circulation are 'Family Tree' and 'Who Do You Think You Are?' The fees are $15 for each magazine for the year from July.

Please let Bev Chappell know at RoundRobin@KapitiGen.org if you wish to be on the circulation list. Further details on our website under Resources > Round Robins.

Every issue has some really interesting articles, so this is a really good way of keeping up with the latest news and having access to new ideas, views and websites, without having to subscribe to the magazines. They both contain a wealth of ideas and information.

Our August meeting had the usual mix of Q&A. We only had time for the DNAGedCom clustering tool, so may continue this overall topic in a future session.

Q. What is the Overlap column on GEDmatch.

A. There is an updated chart on the ISOGG Wiki which shows the total SNPs available for comparison between testing companies and their own different chip versions https://isogg.org/wiki/Autosomal_SNP_comparison_chart

Refer also to the overall test comparisons between companies at https://isogg.org/wiki/Autosomal_DNA_testing_comparison_chart

Sites have to work a lot of magic behind the scenes to produce a seemingly "simple" match list, when either their testing chip changes, or,

like GEDmatch, MyHeritage and FTDNA they accept transfers from other companies

Replace the cover on the computer when you leave and lock the keyboard in the cupboard.

We have wonderful resources on all six of our computers at the APFHC, quite apart from all the other records and books. You are encouraged to use these resources as often as you need.

All six computers have subscriptions to Ancestry, FindMyPast and access to The Genealogist, as well as free sites like FamilySearch (we suggest you use your own log-in to FamilySearch). A microfiche is available. You are encouraged to save the results of your searches on a USB memory stick or send them to your own email address. We have a printer if you wish to print a hard copy. Please put 10c per copy in the honesty box on the cupboard door.

Please do not switch off the printer.
